COACHING THRILLS

Toronto Mayor Rob Ford hoists the trophy after his Don Bosco Eagles defeated the Senator O'Connor Blues 26-14 in a senior football game at Esther Shiner Stadium on Thursday. The players first hollered and shimmied and posed with their prize, before coaxing Ford into laying his hands on the Toronto District Catholic Athletic Association trophy. The Eagles are two wins away from the Metro Bowl. Full story at metronews.ca. CARLOS OSORIO/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Deadly BBQ a result of gang rivalry: Police

Summer block party. Man facing multiple charges is known as 'Bam Bam' on the street

Shaquan Mesquito was still in primary school when Toronto police swooped down on his east-end neighbourhood and arrested dozens of members and associates of the Malvern Crew.

It was May 2004 and police called their operation Project Impact, Toronto's first large-scale gang sweep.

On Thursday, police alleged Mesquito is a member of the notorious gang while announcing they've charged him in the slaying of two innocents attending the now infamous July 16 barbecue on Danzig Street.

Police allege Mesquito — who turned 18 in January — showed up at the party and that he, or someone he was with, was told to leave, but they returned with armed reinforcements and opened fire, wounding Nahom Tsegazab, 19, and 22 others.

Tsegazab had spread word of the community block party via Twitter, though police allege he was immersed in street life and vying for the leadership of the Galloway Boys, another Scarborough gang.

Within a few hours, someone shot up Mesquito's mother's home in the heart of Malvern. No one was injured.

A gun battle, retaliation and bloodshed, now all linked by police to a conflict between young men of similar circumstances. It is a case of déjà vu.

Between June 1996 and May 2004, police recorded dozens of gun fights, homicides, robberies and home invasions stemming from an escalating war between the Malvern Crew and Galloway Boys. Ten drive-by shootings, seven homicides and 35 firearm offences connected to the conflict remain unsolved.

Malvern is an area in the northeastern quadrant of Toronto designed in the '70s to be a model suburban community, but has been deprived of that potential due to poor planning and paucity of public services.

Cops look for more suspects in Danzig case

Mass shooting. Shaquan Mesquito, 18, faces two counts of first-degree murder, 23 assault charges

Sketches of two persons of interest in the Danzig Street shootings. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE/HANDOUT

On Thursday, police announced they had charged 18-year-old Shaquan Mesquito with two counts of first-degree murder, one count of attempted murder, reckless discharge of a firearm and 23 counts of aggravated assault — one for every person wounded by bullets at a neighbourhood barbecue on Danzig Street July 16.

Appealing for more information, police also released composite sketches at a news conference of two "persons of interest" in the case. One man has a scar under his left eye.

More than two lives were wiped out on Danzig St., says the grandfather of Shyanne Charles.

"We lost two people in one incident," Tyrone Charles said Thursday, referring to 14-year-old Shyanne and Joshua Yasay, 23, two innocent victims caught in the crosshairs of the worst mass shooting in Toronto's history. "And the person who did it, his life is over," he added.

Police also appealed for any information that could help identify those who were checking partygoers for guns — a process known as "G-checking."

Toronto Police Staff Insp. Greg McLane said investigators are still exploring possible links between the Danzig Street shooting and another one on Chester Le Boulevard near Victoria Park Avenue at the beginning of September. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Ex-cabinet minister Pupatello announces her bid for Ontario Liberal leadership

Former Ontario cabinet minister Sandra Pupatello, above, officially launches her bid for the Ontario Liberal leadership in Toronto on Thursday. The front-running contender for Premier Dalton McGuinty's job said she would not reconvene the legislature until winning a seat in a byelection. Liberal delegates will elect their new leader Jan. 25-27 at Maple Leaf Gardens, making late February or March the earliest possible date for a byelection. Pupatello confirmed that Finance Minister Dwight Duncan, a longtime friend, has agreed to clear the way by resigning his Windsor seat if she becomes premier. CARLOS OSORIO/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Beagle found branded, partially blinded

An injured dog rests in Aurora, Ont., on Thursday. Police are urging the public to come forward with information after the injured dog, branded with the numbers "191," was found in Aurora. THE CANADIAN PRESS/HANDOUT

The Ontario SPCA has launched an investigation into what left a beagle branded, blind and bruised in Aurora on Sunday.

The animal welfare organization made a public appeal for information Thursday regarding the beagle found curled up under a tree in the front yard of a home, blind in his right eye with injuries to the left side of his head.

The beagle was branded with the number 191, written with an unknown chemical, on both sides of his body.

Fairly common

The branding of "191" is not unusual, Dewar said, confirming the number could be used for dogs in hunting groups. "It's just a way of keeping track of their dog," Dewar said.

Ontario SPCA investigator Brad Dewar said it's still a "50-50" chance the dog had run away or it was abused.

"There are many possibilities," Dewar said. "Anything from the dog got away from its owner, it was scared, it got injured while it was out on its own and it hasn't had food in a matter of week or so.

"There's also the chance where this could be the cruelty side of things."

While the Ontario SPCA has fielded a number of tips from the York region, they don't have any clues as to who the owner of the dog is.

OPP officer charged in death of woman

A northwestern Ontario provincial police officer is facing a charge following an investigation into the death of a 42-year-old woman by the province's police watchdog.

The Special Investigations Unit says Gloria Assin was killed as officers were transporting her to the Kenora, Ont., detachment early on Sept. 23.

Assin died in a collision between the marked cruiser and a tractor trailer at Highway 17A and Redditt Road.

SIU director Ian Scott says Const. Troy Bender is facing one charge of dangerous driving causing death, and is to appear in court in Kenora on Dec. 20. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Musical superstars help celebrate HIV/AIDS-support efforts

An exciting lineup of performers came together to raise funds and awareness for the Stephen Lewis Foundation at Roy Thomson Hall on Wednesday night. Annie Lennox, Angélique Kidjo, Sarah McLachlan, d'bi young, as well as African grandmothers and girls, came together for an exhilarating celebration of the work being done by grassroots organizations that are turning the tide of HIV/AIDS on the frontlines of the pandemic in sub-Saharan Africa. It was hosted by CBC Q's Jian Ghomeshi, and there was a surprise singing of Happy Birthday for Stephen Lewis, who celebrated his 75th birthday that evening. The event raised $250,000 for the Stephen Lewis Foundation. COURTESY OF CAMERON MACLENNAN

Zoo banks on new tenants reproducing

Wombats. Couple joins ancient Hamlet in the Australia Pavilion

Cue the Barry White music — these wombats were brought to the Toronto Zoo with high hopes of making more.

Zookeepers know very little about what Toronto's newest marsupials do when they share a burrow. They're also unsure if their new pair of southern hairy-nosed wombats will know what to do when they get there.

It seems nobody told Millie and Arthur about the birds and the bees.

"Originally, they were orphans out of the wild from South Australia. Their moms got hit by cars, so you pull the joeys out of the pouch and hand-raise them," said Dan Pearson, the acting wildlife care supervisor at the Toronto Zoo.

The sheltered wombats have another hurdle: For all they know, they're siblings. The pair has been hand-raised together by humans since they were pulled from the pouch of separate mothers.

"If they get too brotherly-sisterly, we'll separate them for a while," Pearson said.

Wombats are notoriously hard to breed in captivity. Zookeepers in Australia have tried various methods, including introducing additional males as competition.

Millie and Arthur are both just 18 months old and will have as much time before they're ready to play in the burrows tucked past the kangaroo exhibit, at the back of the Australia Pavilion.

The zoo already has one wombat — 30-year-old Hamlet, who Pearson said is the second longest-living wombat in captivity. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

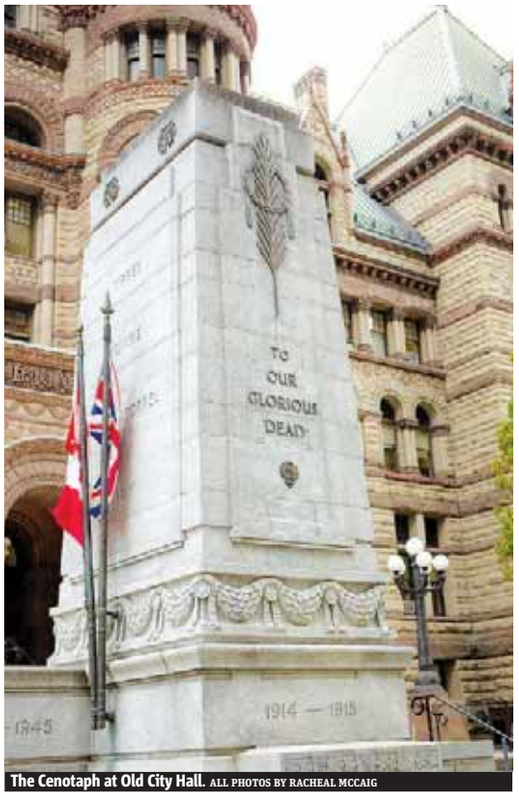
Top 3 places ... to remember



The Cenotaph at Old City Hall. ALL PHOTOS BY RACHEAL MCCAIG

Remembrance Day. Here are the city's best places to pay homage to our war veterans

RACHEAL MCCAIG
toronto@metronews.ca

A penny on a King's tomb? A window inspired by a famous poem? Seeing Bay Street come to a stop? Here are three places to pay your respects this Remembrance Day.

1) From paying respects to William George Barker, Canada's most decorated soldier, or placing a penny on the tomb of our longest-serving prime minister, William Lyon Mackenzie King, to taking in the art and architecture in this tree sanctuary, Mount Pleasant Cemetery (375 Mt. Pleasant Rd.) is a perfect place to stroll through history and remember.

2) Built in 1924 to commemorate students lost in The Great War (a.k.a. WWI), The Soldier's Tower at the University of Toronto boasts relics, mementos, adverts and spectacular stained glass windows based on U of T alum John McCrae's immortal poem, In Flanders Fields. The Carillon bells will be ringing and open for tours the week of the 12th.

3) You might be surprised to hear the city centre come to a standstill, but that's what happens at the Cenotaph in front of Old City Hall (60 Queen St. West) each year at 11 a.m. on Nov. 11th. Sharing a moment to remember with fellow Torontonians is worth a trip.

Other cool places: The Toronto Zoo has free admission from 9:30 to 11 a.m. on the 11th for anyone taking part in their services, and Fort York is commemorating the 100th anniversary of the War of 1812.

Victoria Day shopping gets a thumbs-up

Christmas shopping at the Eaton Centre. DAVID COOPER/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE FILE

Stores across Toronto should be allowed to open on Victoria Day from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., city council's economic development committee has recommended.

Despite heavy pressure from suburban shopping centres for wide-open holiday shopping, the committee rejected a staff recommendation to allow it on four holidays: Victoria Day, Canada Day, Labour Day and Thanksgiving Day.

A round of public consultations earlier this year turned up no great desire for wide-open holiday shopping, said Coun. Mary Fragadakis.

"I think the people of Toronto have actually spoken loud and clear and they see no need for change," Fragadakis said.

"The impact on families is the key element of this issue. A pause gives everyone a chance to spend precious time with those that matter to them."

The economic development committee voted Thursday after hearing submissions from shopping centres, retail workers and unions.

Even opening up on Victoria Day is too much, said Ian Cameron, a grocery store clerk who addressed the committee.

"I'm not happy," Cameron said after the vote. "It's May 24 weekend, it's firecracker day, it's the first weekend of summer. A lot of people open up their cottage that weekend, a lot of people do gardening that weekend."

But the current arrangement is unfair in letting the Eaton Centre open on holidays while denying the same privilege to suburban Yorkdale Shopping Centre and Scarborough Town Centre, said Coun. Josh Colle.

"It reinforces an imbalance between downtown Toronto and the suburbs. I think we need fairness within the city and across city boundaries."

Heading to the 'burbs

While Torontonians may not be clamouring for change, they are taking advantage of holiday shopping at Vaughan Mills shopping centre in York Region and Mississauga's Square One, the committee was told.

DELIVERY OF EARLY 'QUICK WINS' A SIGN OF PROGRESS

ANDY BYFORD
CEO
TORONTO TRANSIT COMMISSION

In previous columns, I have described how the TTC has embarked on a five-year journey to transform customer satisfaction and to modernize the way we do things.

Culture change takes time, but customers should not have to wait to see improvements. For that reason, we are focused on what I call "quick wins" to show that we are serious about delivering better service. Quick wins are improvements that can and should be made right now, often for little or no cost.

System cleanliness and customer information are two areas that we have targeted so far. The introduction of end-of-line litter picking, whereby in-service trains are cleared of garbage each return trip rather than only at night, has proved a hit with customers who have noticed a difference in the cleanliness of vehicles. Trackside walls have been cleaned, washrooms refurbished and we are looking at ways to deliver cleaner streetcars and buses while they are on the road. In parallel, our Transit Control team has stepped up the quantity and quality of information during disruptions, and we are speeding up the installation of information screens at key locations to keep you better informed.

Next up is the introduction of debit and credit facilities at all Collector Booths across the subway by early next year so that Metropasses can be purchased more conveniently.

• On a separate note related to the shelter-bus issue, I am sorry to those customers that were asked to leave a 36 Finch West bus last week. Our policy is to use an empty bus wherever possible, and I very much regret the inconvenience caused to the customers involved.

CLEANING TRAINS

Every morning beginning at 8 a.m., a small, efficient team of TTC staff at Finch and Kennedy Stations scurry onto the trains to collect newspapers, coffee cups, and other items left behind. Their goal is to rid the trains of garbage before they re-enter service.

The program was brought in to create a more customer-friendly and positive TTC experience, and it's working. "We remove four to five bags of garbage from each train," said TTC Supervisor Reed Stickle, who oversees staff at Kennedy. "We're getting a lot of positive feedback from customers."

Last March, the TTC moved the night train-cleaning crew to the day and afternoon shifts, improving conditions for riders, but bringing new challenges to the job. Now that trains are cleaned at the end terminals, staff have approximately one minute to clean before the train re-enters service or heads back into the yard.

A light clean is done during rush-hour, mostly removing newspapers and other garbage. During mid-day service, when trains hold at end terminals for one to four minutes, crews tackle the larger jobs like mopping up spills, dusting and cleaning the windows.

The best part about customers and staff working together is the result — cleaner trains and fewer delays. Garbage left on platforms or on the floors of trains can blow down to the tracks and ignite, posing a significant fire hazard and requiring the TTC to hold service.

DID YOU KNOW?

TTC's top five busiest bus and streetcar routes, on an average business day:
1. 504 King (streetcar) — 56,700 customers
2. 510 Spadina (streetcar) — 43,800 customers
3. 501 Queen (streetcar) — 43,500 customers
4. 25 Don Mills (bus) — 41, 800 customers
5. 32 Eglinton West (bus) — 41,600 customers

YONGE-UNIVERSITY-SPADINA LINE CLOSED UNION TO ST ANDREW FOR TTC CONSTRUCTION

On Saturday, Nov. 10, and Sunday, Nov. 11, there will be no train service from Union to St Andrew Stations on the Yonge-University-Spadina line due to the construction of a second platform and modernization work at Union Station. Shuttle buses will not be provided, but customers can utilize the 504 King streetcar for travel between St Andrew and King Stations. Customers travelling downtown are encouraged to utilize St George Station if heading to the University line, or Bloor-Yonge Station if heading south of Bloor on the Yonge line. Normal subway service resumes Monday, Nov. 12.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

On Remembrance Day, this Sunday, Nov. 11, at 11 a.m., the TTC will join Canada in honouring its nation's veterans by bringing all of its vehicles to a standstill for a two-minute stop and stay. The following announcement will be made immediately before the two-minute pause: "Attention TTC customers, the Toronto Transit Commission will now observe a two-minute pause in service and reflect on the sacrifices for peace made by Canadians."

Subway and RT cars will be held at station platforms. Bus and streetcar operators will stop their vehicles at a regular service stop prior to 11 a.m., and remain there during the pause. Wheel-Trans operators will bring their vehicles to a stop at a safe location. Service will resume immediately following the observation of the two minutes of silence.

On Remembrance Day, decorated Canadian war and peacekeeping veterans can ride the TTC for free by showing their service medals/ribbons. One companion will be allowed to ride for free as well.

Yogi to the stars has a story to tell

Danny Paradise will be demonstrating poses like this one at a weekend yoga retreat at the Shangri-La hotel in downtown Toronto. CONTRIBUTED

Weekend retreat. After introducing several celebrities to yoga, teacher Danny Paradise is focusing on classes for the masses

toronto@metronews.ca

From musician to yoga guru was not a huge stretch for Danny Paradise, a world-renowned teacher who is hosting a yoga retreat this weekend at Toronto's Shangri-La hotel.

Paradise — superstar singer Sting's guru and the man said to have introduced Madonna to yoga — started practising the meditative art while living in Hawaii in 1976, when two Ashtanga yoga teachers invited him to a demonstration. Hooked, Paradise joined their class the next day.

"It's a fantastic way to strengthen and heal," Paradise said. "It allows people to really fulfil their destiny."

He never planned to teach yoga, until one of the instructors asked him to co-teach a class in Maui.

But his nomadic life as a musician soon saw him leaving the island to play gigs around the world, and he started introducing yoga to the people he met.

In England in 1990, a fellow musician, who had practised yoga with Paradise before, introduced him to Sting. "That was the beginning of his exploration into yoga," Paradise said.

Paradise taught Sting's wife, friends and band members. Sting introduced him to other celebrity clients including Madonna and Paul Simon.

Now, most of his focus is on teaching the public, he said. The event at the Shangri-La runs on Saturday and Sunday. For three hours each day, Paradise will impart his yogic wisdom to participants before running them through the exercises.

The classes are open to anyone — beginners, masters and teachers.

"Everybody has to start somewhere if they're going to start yoga," he said, encouraging beginners not to feel intimidated.

"I try to give people as much information as they personally can handle and inspire them to learn more ... I don't overdo it with anybody."

After two days of the yoga lifestyle, Paradise can recommend budding yogis to his network of qualified teachers across the city.

Those keen on continuing with him can join some of the classes he will be teaching in the area over the next few weeks, including a workshop at Fireflow Yoga at Yonge and Eglinton on Nov. 18. He will also be visiting Cambridge and Ajax.

As for Sting? "We still get together," Paradise said. "Whenever we get together, we do yoga."

Getting started

"Everybody has to start somewhere if they're going to start yoga. I try to give people as much information as they personally can handle and inspire them to learn more ... I don't overdo it with anybody."

Trish Stratus knows how to lure men ... into yoga

Seven-time World Wrestling Entertainment champion Trish Stratus is committed to helping men embrace yoga through a new exercise DVD made just for them.

After the former wrestler relied on her yoga practice to rehabilitate a nagging back injury, she opened a studio in Vaughan.

She quickly noticed men were inclined to negate the benefits of yoga, she said, dismissing it as "stretching and incense."

Stratus champions a form she refers to as hybrid yoga — a combination of flexibility and strength training.

She made the workout DVD to fill a void in the marketplace, she said, giving men "more squats, more push-ups" in their yoga practice.

In her DVD, men watch former Toronto Blue Jays star Joe Carter perform the 25-minute routine, giving them someone to relate to.

"Everyone in the world should do yoga," she said.

Nor'easter brings new misery to U.S. East Coast after Sandy

Still in the dark. More than a foot of snow falls on parts of New Jersey, causing further power outages

The New York-New Jersey region woke up to wet snow, hundreds of cancelled flights and more power outages Thursday after a new storm pushed back efforts to recover from a superstorm that left millions powerless and dozens dead last week.

Gov. Andrew Cuomo said losses from Superstorm Sandy in New York state could total $33 billion.

The new storm did not bring a second wave of flooding that some had feared.

"We lost power last week, just got it back for a day or two, and now we lost it again," said John Monticello of Point Pleasant Beach, N.J. "Every day it's the same now: Turn on the gas burner for heat. Instant coffee. Use the iPad to find out what's going on in the rest of the world."

But the new storm didn't appear to rouse exhausted residents of the country's most densely populated region to a new chorus of complaints. Except, perhaps, on this week's presidential election.

Valdimir Repnin emerged Thursday morning from his powerless Staten Island home with a snow shovel in his hand, and a question: "Who won? Obama?" he asked.

The region's greatest challenge remains finding emergency housing for tens of thousands of people, in some cases for the long term.

"We are going to have to look at a ground-up redesign," Cuomo said of the power and fuel supply systems. "With power outages, you paralyze the nation, and chaos ensues." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Liberals rejoice at notion that new America is upon them

Seattle revellers celebrate early election returns favouring Washington state Referendum 74, which legalized gay marriage. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The United States has long been considered among the most conservative countries in the Western world, particularly when it comes to the importance of religion to its citizens and the distaste for the type of social safety net Canadians and Europeans so cherish.

But with the re-election of President Barack Obama this week on the overwhelming support of women, minorities, gays and young Americans, progressives are declaring the dawning of a liberal America.

Same-sex marriage is now the law in several states. A movement towards the decriminalization of marijuana is on the horizon. Wisconsin elected Tammy Baldwin to the U.S. Senate, the first openly gay member of the chamber.

Progress

"This election was very clearly a demand not to turn the clock back."

Douglas Brinkley, professor at Rice University

Groups that voted in droves for Obama are swelling in numbers — Hispanics and Asian-Americans, in particular.

In 2011, minority births surpassed white births for the first time in the United States, and white men are now a dwindling minority. Indeed, by 2042, the majority of Americans won't be white.

Tuesday polls suggested a historic number of Americans who describe themselves as liberal. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Military investigates racially-charged video

A video showing a Canadian Forces officer with his face in brown makeup pretending to be Osama bin Laden's brother is in poor taste but does not reflect the wider military community, Defence Minister Peter MacKay said Thursday.

MacKay issued a statement in response to a video made in 2010 that features an unidentified military member stationed at 14 Wing Greenwood wearing a fake beard and turban, boasting that he worked with the leader of al-Qaida.

The CBC says it was leaked a copy of the video, which shows the officer calling a woman a "silly infidel," saying he drives a taxi and then later yelling at someone off-screen to get away from his car bomb.

MacKay said an investigation into what happened was launched as soon as the Defence Department became aware of the video's existence.

"Two years ago, certain members of the Canadian Forces stationed at CFB Greenwood filmed a video intended for their colleagues that featured inappropriate content and poor taste," MacKay said.

Capt. John Pulchny, a spokesman at 14 Wing Greenwood, said the Canadian Forces National Investigation Service is trying to determine who made the video and whether any military rules were broken. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Filmmaker gets jail time for probation violations

The man behind the anti-Muslim film that sparked violence in many parts of the Middle East was sentenced to a year in federal prison for unrelated probation violations. The sentence was the result of a plea bargain between lawyers for Mark Basseley Youssef and prosecutors. Youssef admitted he had used several false names in violation of his probation and obtained a driver's licence under a false name. He was on probation for a bank fraud case. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arizona gunman gets life in prison for 2011 rampage

Giffords' shooter sentenced. Jared Lee Loughner pleaded guilty; could still receive death penalty from state prosecutors

A man whose 2011 shooting rampage killed six people and wounded 13 others, including Congresswoman Gabrielle Giffords, was ordered Thursday to serve seven consecutive life sentences, plus 140 years in federal prison.

Jared Lee Loughner, 24, pleaded guilty under an agreement that guarantees he will spend the rest of his life in prison without the possibility of parole. He avoids a federal death sentence, although state prosecutors could still decide to try him.

Giffords, partially blind, her right arm paralyzed and limp, came face-to-face with Loughner at the sentencing, standing beside her husband as he spoke of her struggles to recover from being shot in the head.

"Her life has been forever changed. Plans she had for our family and her career have been immeasurably altered," said astronaut Mark Kelly, both he and his wife staring at the shooter inside a packed courtroom. "Every day is a continuous struggle to do those things she once was so good at."

One by one, survivors of the attack at a Giffords political event approached the podium to address Loughner, each turning toward him where he sat with his attorneys.

"You took away my life, my love and my reason for living," said Mavanell Stoddard, who was shot three times and cradled her dying husband in her arms as he lay bleeding on the sidewalk after shielding her from the spray of bullets.

Loughner's parents sat nearby, his mother sobbing.

Some victims, including Giffords, welcomed the plea deal as a way to move on. It spared them and their families from having to go through a potentially lengthy and traumatic trial and locks up the defendant for life. Both sides reached the deal after a judge declared that Loughner was able to understand the charges against him. After the shooting, he was diagnosed with schizophrenia and underwent forcible psychotropic drug treatments. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New blacklist aims to deter smartphone theft

Database. Phones to go on an electronic list in Canada in a move to deter thieves, protect personal data

Canadian wireless carriers are combatting theft with a stolen phone database. MARIO TAMA/GETTY IMAGES FILE

Canada's wireless carriers are targeting smartphone theft by setting up a database that will blacklist lost or stolen phones to prevent them from being reactivated.

The move would also help protect personal data on such devices, the Canadian Wireless Telecommunications Association said Thursday.

Smartphones are worth $600 to $700 and can be resold on the black market, noted association president Bernard Lord.

"With this database, it makes that a lot less attractive because the buyer of the stolen phone will not be able to connect to any network in Canada," Lord said from Ottawa.

"It eliminates the incentive for stealing a device."

The idea is also to reduce the black market value of a smartphone in the eyes of criminals, Lord added.

Once consumers call their wireless carrier to report their smartphone lost or stolen, the device's internal identification number goes on the electronic blacklist.

Lord said even though more smartphones are lost than stolen, law enforcement officials have raised concerns about the issue.

The database for the Canadian wireless industry will be up and running by September 2013 and Canada's carriers will also be contributing to an international database to help prevent smartphone theft, he said.

However, consumers who have their smartphones lost or stolen are "not off the hook" for paying their smartphone contracts.

A website will also be set up by the association to help consumers protect their smartphone data and help protect themselves from theft.

Lord said the smartphone's ID number — called the international mobile electronic number — will be verified by carriers to make sure the device has not been lost or stolen.

Museum. Forgotten fossilized horn leads to new dinosaur discovery

A piece of a fossilized reptilian horn that sat in an Ottawa museum for decades has led to the discovery of a new dinosaur species the size of a rhinoceros that roamed Alberta 80 million years ago.

Pieces of skulls from the recently named Xenoceratops were originally dug up from rocky sediments in southern Alberta in 1958.

However, a pair of paleontologists rediscovered the bones a decade ago and gradually pieced together the sweeping neck plate of the four-footed, horn-headed giant. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Aftershock fear as Guatemala earthquake death toll tops 50

7.4 magnitude. Quake caused terror over a wide area; damage reported in all but one of the country's 22 states

Guatemalans huddled in the cold streets of an earthquake-ravaged town without communications or power on Thursday, one day after the worst temblor since 1976 shook nearly the entire country, killing at least 52 people and leaving another 22 people missing.

President Otto Perez Molina said the powerful 7.4-magnitude quake that hit Wednesday morning off the Pacific coast affected as many as 1.2 million people. He said a little more than 700 people were in shelters, with most opting to stay with family or friends.

The president said there had been 70 aftershocks in the first 24 hours after the quake, some as strong as magnitude 4.9.

Damaged homes will be among the biggest problems the country will face in the coming days, Perez added.

Guatemalans fearing aftershocks huddled in the streets of the mountain town of San Marcos, the most affected area, where at least 40 people died. It was the strongest earthquake to hit Guatemala since a 1976 temblor that killed 23,000. The quake centred off the town of Champerico. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Social financing. Feds consider private funding to improve lives of needy

The federal government wants to tap into a "gold mine" of private-sector funding to finance its social programs — a new approach the New Democrats are dismissing as little more than budget cuts in disguise.

Human Resources Minister Diane Finley launched a "call for concepts" on Thursday, asking businesses, not-for-profits and the volunteer sector to come up with fundamentally new ideas for jointly financing improvements in the lives of the needy.

The launch is a tentative step into the realm of social financing — an approach that is being tested in the United Kingdom and the United States. It invites private-sector investors to provide up-front money and then collect a return on projects that government traditionally pays for, such as homelessness or hunger.

"It's our first official step in inviting your ideas to the table that can help shape future social policy in Canada — in a new way," Finley told a Toronto forum.

"It's time for us to unleash individual initiative so that those who are motivated can help others, and those who need help are given the opportunity to take more responsibility for themselves."

The government wants to collect ideas until the end of the year and then, if all goes well, put out a call for proposals or identify pilot projects. Eventually, Finley foresees a broader "social partnerships" strategy.

"It's really community leaders who can best understand their local challenges, identify solutions and get results," Finley said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Not impressed

The Opposition NDP immediately attacked the idea, accusing the Conservatives of privatizing social services for ideological reasons, based on a model that has flopped in other countries.

- "What they're proposing is a public-relations exercise to justify new cuts to services for Canadians," said Nycole Turmel.

At least 2 dead in blaze at industrial plant

Toxic explosion.
Massive fire was one of two in Quebec Thursday, as another raged in Old Montreal

Two people were reported killed as of press time as an explosion loud enough to be heard for kilometres ripped through an industrial plant Thursday, triggering a fire that produced a thick, dark cloud of toxic smoke.

The blast and fire sent 19 other people to hospital, some with severe burns. The two victims were found in the rubble of the decimated processing plant.

The incident occurred in Quebec's Eastern Townships at the Sherbrooke facility belonging to Neptune Technologies & Bioressources, which produces health products, such as Omega-3 derived from marine life.

Martin Carrier, a Sherbrooke police spokesman, said more than 100 people in Sherbrooke and surrounding suburbs phoned within a minute.

"They heard the explosion," Carrier said. "It was a big noise. A lot of black smoke. You could see it everywhere in the city."

It was the first of two major fires Thursday in Quebec.

Hours later, flames were skipping off a rooftop in Old Montreal as emergency crews were called in to deal with a blaze a block away from the famous Notre-Dame Basilica, close to the Montreal La Presse newspaper, which had to be evacuated. There were no reports of injuries in the Montreal fire. THE CANADIAN PRESS

When to let go of loyalty discounts to save money on insurance.

Many drivers assume that staying with the same insurance company for a long period of time leads to the best car insurance rates. While this may be true for some people who have a good driving profile and obtain loyalty discounts, it is not always the case. The rates charged by different insurance companies to insure the same driver, with the same car, for the exact same coverage, can vary by hundreds and even thousands of dollars. And with so many insurance companies providing car insurance in Ontario, odds are you are not currently insured with the company that offers the best rate for your driving profile.

One of the ways insurance companies try to keep customers around is by offering perks to loyal customers. Loyalty discounts are usually the main perk, but others may include reduced deductibles. Often insurance customers believe that by looking for a new insurance policy they will wind up paying more since they'll have to forfeit any loyalty discounts and perks they have earned. In many cases, however, a lower rate with another insurance company could save you money because the rate difference offsets any earned loyalty rewards from your current company. There is no risk to taking some time to shop around and get insurance quotes. And your current insurer will not know that you are looking, unless you tell them. Car insurance quotes come without obligation, so you can compare rates whenever you like. This will give you a better idea of how your current rate stacks up in comparison with what is available at another company.

Insurance quoting sites like InsuranceHotline.com can help by providing an independent, unbiased rate comparison from a network of over 30 insurance companies to find you a lower rate available for your profile.

You don't owe loyalty to your insurance provider. You owe money.

And possibly too much.

Your loyalty discount may not save you as much as you think. Insurance rates can vary by hundreds, even thousands of dollars. But InsuranceHotline.com will always provide the lowest rates available within our network of over 30 premier insurance companies.

Two men and a little baby (penguin)

Chick it out.
'Extraordinary' gay pair manage to co-coax abandoned egg into existence

In an apparent world first, the newest chick in a Danish zoo's King penguin colony has two dads.

"This year has been extraordinary," zoologist Nina Christensen told Torstar News Service on Thursday.

Odense Zoo keepers realized two of their male King penguins were a couple about a year ago, she said. Then they noticed the gay penguins would try to "disturb the other pairs and steal their eggs."

So far, not too odd. Penguins and swans in the wild do the same thing.

In brooding season, though, the gay penguins took to trying to incubate dead herring. Penguins, males and females in turn, incubate eggs by standing on them.

"The keepers realized they seriously wanted to stay with an egg."

As fortune would have it, a female penguin started acting oddly as well. She'd already delivered an egg with one male then dumped him and produced another with a different, already mated, male. Then she dumped him and abandoned the egg.

Ice, ice, baby

"The keepers realized they seriously wanted to stay with an egg."

Nina Christensen
Zoologist on the penguin couple's attempts to prove their parental prowess

In the lifetime monogamy of the King penguin world, this was "extraordinary," said Christensen.

"Now we have an extra egg and this pair that have been standing with fishes."

The keepers tested the gay penguins' parenting skills on a ball, then tried them with the abandoned egg. They were, said Christensen, natural parents.

Happy feet. COURTESY OF ARD JOUNGSMA/ODENSE ZOO/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

"With King penguins, they mix it between the male and female. One stands with the egg while the other goes to feed and then they shift. It was the same with this pair. They both incubated the egg."

The chick hatched about a month ago and the new little family remains separated from the colony while they bond but will soon rejoin them. Penguins recognize their offspring by their distinctive cries, indistinguishable to humans, and this trio are no different, Christensen said.

The behaviour could be common in nature, she said. Male and female King penguins look identical and they share incubation, so it's tough to tell what's going on inside a large colony.

In fact, the zoo won't know the gender of this little one until it gets its adult feathers at about eight months.

In captivity, however, the Odense pair are a first King penguins as gay adoptive dads, she said.

Veteran recalls excitement of being on forefront of emerging female workforce and military service

ROSANNA HAROUTOUNIAN

Second World War veteran Helen Rapp said she doesn't want young Canadians to forget the women who served in war.

"We opened the door for women who are in the military now," she said. "That is what we're really very proud of."

In 1941, Rapp left her hometown of Schumacher, Ont., to work in a munitions factory in Hamilton.

"There was a catch, though," said Rapp. "I couldn't go without my mother because I was only 15." Her mother worked in the cafeteria, while Rapp helped make barrels for bofor guns.

"I went out in overalls, with my hair tied back, to this station," said Rapp, recalling she was met at the station by an older man and five younger men," said Rapp.

When the younger men started whistling, the older man stood up for her.

"He said, 'There'll be none of that. She is a member of this crew. You treat her properly.'" Rapp said she nicknamed him Fibber McGee after a character from a radio program.

Rapp said she made friends with four girls from Prince Albert, whose apartment was as busy as "Grand Central Station." The girls would visit the dancehall to meet soldiers training at Hamilton's Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

"You never, ever, did not have a date," said Rapp, laughing. Rapp said one air force trainee from England, Jeff, was a great dancer who taught her the jitterbug.

"He never swung me over his head, but we just loved to dance," she said.

Rapp worked in the factory until 1942. At 16, she pretended she was 18 so she could enter the Canadian Women's Army Corps in Ottawa, where she lives today.

She worked in Ottawa as a section sergeant of the directorate of signals.

"The government wanted women in the military, but our mandate was only until 1946, and then you were out" she said.

Joining the war effort

Factory girls for their soldier boys

As husbands, sons, brothers, and fathers were called out to fight on the front lines, some women also thrust themselves into unknown territory by joining munitions factories in the 1940s to supply the men with the weapons they needed for battle.

For some women at the time it was their first job. For others, it was a moral decision to leave their homes and families behind to provide for the war effort.

Women quickly learned their ways around the factories to create weapons such as cannons and ammunition while grappling with the fear of what the war may bring. At the same time, however, it also gave women newfound freedom from social constraints at home.

Veterans speak about what was once taboo

Helen Rapp, a veteran of the Second World War, says that while soldiers are more open to sharing their wartime experiences, the Canadian government can still do more to support veterans.

"The majority of men never talked," said Rapp, who served as a section sergeant at the Directorate of Signals in Ottawa from 1942 to 1946. "When they came home, they got into civilian clothes, and that was the end of it."

She said that was an improvement from the First World War, when soldiers were shot when they couldn't handle the stresses of war. "It was called shell-shock," she said. "They thought, 'You're just putting this on. You don't want to fight.'"

Rapp said that when she visits classes to talk about her experiences, she asks students whether they have relatives who served in the military.

"They say, 'Oh yes, my granddad was, or my uncle, but they never talked.' And they didn't," said Rapp. "They just wanted to forget the bad stuff."

She said veterans are more likely to share their experiences with each other.

"You look at these old fellas and these old gals and ask, 'Where were you posted? What did you do?'" said Rapp. "There's a bond there."

Rapp's husband Jerry Bowen, a veteran of Canada's navy and armed forces, agrees.

"The fellows who were with you at the time have an understanding others don't," said Bowen. "Whenever we get together, we have a good talk."

Rapp said that while Veteran's Affairs Canada is better-equipped to identify and deal with soldiers suffering from post-traumatic stress disorder, recent cuts are putting the department under strain.

"They should never have cut back the services that they did," said Rapp. "They haven't in the (United) States. They cut back every department but Veteran's Affairs, and we were hoping they would do the same here, but (Defence Minister Peter) MacKay decided no."

The Union of Veterans' Affairs Employees predicted in January that the government's plan to cut $226 million from the Veterans Affairs budget in the next two years would result in 500 job cuts by 2015.

"They're short-staffed now," said Rapp. "Where before someone was looking after five or six people, their load is more now."

Rapp said part of the reason she speaks to other Canadians is to ensure they know that veterans should be valued.

"We want to show them that we were there. We made history."

...and she puts the boom in wartime bombshells

Paying tribute. Bomb Girls actress honoured to salute women like one she portrays in TV series

MATT BARNES/ GLOBAL

jessica.smith@metronews.ca

Growing up studying history, Charlotte Hegele learned all about the men who fought the Second World War. It was only years later, reading the script of Bomb Girls, that she really learned about the women.

"I think a lot of young people blur history together and they don't realize that there are specific pockets of time where extraordinary things happened," said Hegele. "It's so important that we tell women's stories."

Hegele plays Kate Andrews, a young woman who flees from her abusive father, a tyrannical street preacher, to Toronto, where she works at Victory Munitions.

The main characters on Bomb Girls are inspired by the real Canadian women who worked in munitions factories. They built bombs that could explode with one false move, in factories they believed could be a target for an attack on Canadian soil.

"On World War II, when I was in school, we spoke so much about men," she said. "We, assumed, for whatever reason, that women during war would just be sitting at home taking care of the family waiting for their man to come home, waiting for the soldiers to come home, when, in fact, their place in society became pivotal to the success of the Allies."

Bomb Girls shows why the war was pivotal for women, how they went to work when their country needed them to and never turned back.

"It's hard for me to imagine how it really would have been, how it really would have felt to be a woman at that time — but I think that women were just itching to be given equal opportunities as men," Hegele said. "It must have been not just liberating but exciting to be able to do jobs — jobs they actually kept."

For Hegele, telling stories about Canadian history is "an important public service" that she learned from her grandfather.

Dr. Joseph Walmsley was a medical officer who fought in Dieppe. When he returned, he would speak at school Remembrance Day ceremonies.

"He would come in with his medals — it was a very proud moment, to see him come and speak in his full uniform," she said. "I wasn't just proud that he was the speaker, it was because he was so proud. It was a moment for him to give some perspective for young people and understanding of what he actually did."

Quoted

"Some American viewers have been confused because one of the events that happens in the first season is Pearl Harbor, but it doesn't happen until the end. And, of course, Pearl Harbor is the reason the States got involved in the war to begin with... It's nice to know that we're not just telling the women's story, but the Canadian story, because it's unique."

Real factories behind Bomb Girls series

- One of the real factories Victory Munitions is based on is the Defence Industries Limited plant, which built munitions for the Allies and led to the founding of the Town of Ajax. The other was the General Engineering Company of Ontario (GECO) plant in Scarborough.
- The cast is currently shooting season two, set to air in 2013, at the set on Brown's Line in Etobicoke.
- The new season will include Rosie O'Donnell as guest star. She will play "Dottie" in Episode 209.
- You can watch the first season of Bomb Girls online at: globaltv.com/bombgirls.

Meeting her inspiration

Hegele has had the chance to meet some of the real Bomb Girls who are the show's inspiration. Her first time was at the show's premiere in Ottawa.

She recalls thinking so much about her character during the filming and then realizing, at the premiere, the impact Bomb Girls would have on the real women who lived that story.

"It was really scary," she said. "At that moment I thought, 'Okay, I really hope we did them justice and we created something that was respectful and honoured their accomplishments and that they would be proud to watch."

"The original Bomb Girls seemed moved," she said. "At the time of the war, perhaps, it didn't seem for them that they were doing anything extraordinary because it was what their country needed them to do and they were just doing what they could do. But it's really important for our country to know now about the sacrifices they made."

The truth comes out in candid WW2 doc

The real story.
Documentary uncovers facts behind the WW2 mission dramatized in Quentin Tarantino's action flick Inglorious Basterds

In Quentin Tarantino's Second World War action flick Inglourious Basterds, a ragtag group of Jewish-American soldiers agree to go on a dangerous mission hunting Nazis behind enemy lines.

The deadly mercenaries are tasked with collecting 100 scalps apiece on their way to take out the Germans' top military leaders.

Not surprisingly for a Tarantino film, it's cartoonishly over the top and not at all historically accurate.

But there was just enough truth there for Canadian director Min Sook Lee to latch onto for The Real Inglorious Bastards, which airs Thursday on History.

She had previously helmed the similar documentary The Real M*A*S*H and was asked by History to produce another show with a compelling real-life tale that somehow mirrored the Tarantino film.

"I'm not a Tarantino fan — I hadn't seen the film, I wasn't familiar with the story," she admits in an interview.

"So I had to watch the film and then start looking around for something that was similar in real life — and that took a while."

She eventually came across the story of Operation Greenup, a covert mission ordered by the U.S. military's Office of Strategic Services.

Jewish refugees Hans Wijnberg of Holland and Fred Mayer of Germany joined the U.S. army eager to help the Allied effort against Nazi forces. They met at an OSS training camp while learning guerilla warfare.

"It felt like I had my chance to do what I set out to do — kill Nazis," says Mayer in the documentary. "That's why all the Jewish boys joined."

They parachuted onto a glacier in Germany so they could gather intelligence on the Brenner Pass, the main supply route into Italy. They landed in deep snow, without skis, and after a long journey they reached a small hamlet, where they claimed to be members of a German alpine unit.

"These missions had a high rate of failure, they didn't really know what they were doing, there was a lot of making things up as they went along," says Sook Lee.

Through interviews and dramatic re-enactments, the documentary covers how the men then based themselves in safehouses and began sending information back to the U.S. while posing as Germans.

A cross to bear

Canadians are a humble bunch. Maybe too humble.

Within a few weeks, Gov. Gen. David Johnston will bestow a final batch of bravery decorations on Canadian troops who fought in southern Afghanistan, but the list likely won't include the nation's highest battle honour: the Victoria Cross.

The notion that Canada will exit its first major shooting war in 60 years without such recognition has some asking what a Canadian soldier must do to win the honour.

The military recoils at the suggestion that politics comes within a country mile of deciding who is awarded the country's highest decoration for "extraordinary valour and devotion to duty while facing a hostile force." The stringent process that sees a nomination pass through no less than three committees of senior officers ensures that selection is based on merit. Even still, throughout the war in Afghanistan, there were quiet murmurs within the ranks about why some of the 17 Stars of Military Valour, the country's second-highest decoration handed out to date, were never considered worthy of elevation to the Victoria Cross.

The last of Canada's 94 Victoria Crosses were handed out during the Second World War, at a time when the British still oversaw the award on behalf of Commonwealth nations. The Canadian version was created in 1993, but the actual medal was not struck until 2008.

Families complain about care at veterans' facility

Sunnybrook. Veterans' centre unique in Canada in that it gets funding from both Ontario and Ottawa

Canada's largest veterans facility, home to 500 veterans of the Second World War and Korean War, is under fire from several families with complaints their frail relatives have been neglected or forced to endure unsanitary conditions.

They also say raising concerns at Sunnybrook Health Sciences Centre in Toronto — among them delayed bathing and feeding, soiled sheets, dead mice in rooms, a lack of toilet paper, and constant room and caregiver changes — were mostly met with indifference or hostility.

"It's appalling what's going on in the veterans' wing of Sunnybrook," says Rodney Burnell, whose 92-year-old father George lives on the spartan 3rd floor of K-Wing.

For its part, Sunnybrook suggests the complaints are coming from a handful of malcontents.

Some families — those whose relatives need the most care — say there's a bleak reality beyond the pomp of Remembrance Day: moaning patients ignored, others left to stare at ceilings for hours, dentures hanging from mouths.

Residents, many of whom are unable to feed themselves, go hungry or get cold food, relatives say, because there aren't enough caregivers to feed them.

Some relatives have resorted to hiring their own caregivers to keep watch over their loved ones.

Burnell recounts how her complaints about mice and droppings were dismissed as something that happens in nursing homes because residents eat in their rooms.

Staff finally laid traps next to his bed then, she says, they promptly forgot about them.

"My son looked underneath the window-ledge area and saw all these (dead) mice," Burnell, 86, says.

Following a "benchmarking" exercise, the facility laid off 12 full-time and eight part-time registered nurses in April. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Frustrated vets. Families feel abandoned by Ottawa

Disabled veterans and military widows are unleashing a broadside of frustration against the Harper government just before Remembrance Day, saying they're feeling abandoned and left to fend for themselves.

They have gathered on Parliament Hill to paint a stark picture of bureaucratic indifference and red tape that flies in the face of reassurances from the government, which says the care of military families is a top priority.

Few of the government's touted programs meant to help combat veterans find civilian jobs actually help the disabled, complained retired master corporal Dave Desjardins, who is paralyzed from the waist down. He says the so-called "helmets-to-hardhats" program, which aids ex-soldiers get into the construction industry, is a wonderful resource — but for someone without physical limitations.

Desjardins said many of the head hunters discriminate in favour of officers, leaving non-commissioned members out in the cold.

Ex-soldiers say much of the dissatisfaction can be traced back to the 2006 New Veterans Charter, which overhauled the way ex-soldiers are compensated. For many of the wounded, the government has moved away from a pension-for-life system into a workers compensation-style lump-sum payment, a process that is now the subject of a class-action lawsuit. Bulgaria. A team of archaeologists has discovered a tomb containing gold, a tiara and other treasures

Archaeologists say they have unearthed an almost 2,400-year-old golden hoard in an ancient Thracian tomb in northern Bulgaria.

The treasure was found on Thursday near the village of Sveshtari, 400 kilometres northeast of the capital of Sofia, team leader Diana Gergova said.

She said that among the artifacts, dating back to the end of the fourth or the beginning of the third century B.C., were gold jewelry and applications for horse trappings, a tiara with reliefs of lions and fantasy animals, as well as four bracelets and a ring.

The Thracians lived in what is now Bulgaria, and parts of modern Greece, Romania, Macedonia and Turkey between 4,000 B.C. and the 7th century A.D., when they were assimilated by the invading Slavs.

Assad vows he will 'live and die' in Syria

Civil war. Syrian president pledges in rare interview he won't be forced into exile and will die in his homeland

In this Tuesday, Nov. 6 photo, a Syrian rebel stands in the ruins of a private house, destroyed by shelling and fighting, in the Old City of Aleppo, Syria, now controlled by the Free Syrian Army. MONICA PRIETO/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The bravado sounded familiar. Like the leaders of other countries swept away by Arab Spring uprisings, Syrian President Bashar Assad vowed to never be forced into exile and to die in his homeland.

Assad dug in his heels even as world powers move to boost the opposition in Syria's civil war — the latest turn in a nearly 20-month-old crisis so overwhelming that even the Red Cross says it can no longer cope.

"I am not a puppet, I was not made by the West for me to go to the West or any other country," Assad said in an interview with Russia Today, which posted excerpts Thursday on its website. "I am Syrian, I am made in Syria, and I will live and die in Syria."

The rare interview — in which the 47-year-old president spoke in English with his words translated into Arabic — was posted online two days after British Prime Minister David Cameron suggested that Assad could be allowed safe passage out of Syria if that would guarantee an end to the civil war. Palestinians look to raise status at UN to non-member observer state

Palestinians took the first step toward raising their status at the United Nations from an observer to a nonmember observer state Thursday by circulating a draft resolution to the 193 UN member states and asking for their support.

The Palestinian observer mission said no decision has been made on when to submit the draft resolution to the UN General Assembly for a vote. Arab League foreign ministers are expected to discuss the draft and the timing of its submission at a meeting in Cairo on Nov. 12-13, a Palestinian diplomat said.

A letter from the observer mission accompanying the draft resolution asks UN members to support "the enhancement of the status of Palestine in the United Nations General Assembly to be considered by the assembly at a date to be announced in the near future." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A girl plays with the Breast Milk Baby doll, which has attracted controversy south of the border. BERJUAN TOYS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. retailers run scared of breastfeeding doll

Breast Milk Baby.
Halter top with 'nipple' sensors prompts toy to make suckling sounds

We've got dolls that wet, crawl and talk. We've got dolls with perfect hourglass figures. We've got dolls with swagger. And we've got plenty that come with itty bitty baby bottles.

But it's a breastfeeding doll whose suckling sounds are prompted by sensors sewn into a halter top at the nipples of little girls that caught some flak after hitting the U.S. market.

"I just want the kids to be kids," Bill O'Reilly said on his Fox News show when he learned of the Breast Milk Baby. "And this kind of stuff. We don't need this."

What, exactly, people don't need is unclear to Dennis Lewis, the U.S. representative for Berjuan Toys, a family-owned, 40-year-old doll maker in Spain that can't get the dolls onto mainstream shelves more than a year after introducing the line in the U.S.

"We've had a lot of support from lots of breastfeeding organizations, lots of mothers, lots of educators," said Lewis, in Orlando, Fla. "There also has been a lot of blowback from people who maybe haven't thought to think about really why the doll is there and what its purpose is. Usually they are people that either have problems with breastfeeding in general, or they see it as something sexual." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The dolls aren't cheap at $89 US a pop. After unsuccessfully peddling them to U.S. retailers large and small, the company now has them listed at half price on their website in time for the holidays this year.

StatsCan. Exports up slightly in September

Canada's trade performance beat expectations in September with a smaller than expected deficit of $826 million, but economists note the sector remains a major drag on growth.

The trade report from Statistics Canada found the deficit shrinking by almost half from a downwardly revised $1.5 billion in August, aided by a welcome 1.9 per cent uptick in exports.

Analysts said the performance was encouraging given the weakness in export markets, particularly the U.S. and Europe. Economists had expected another $1.5 billion deficit.

But they noted that on the back of soft August and July numbers, the third-quarter tally will still weigh heavily on the economy.

"September's trade report confirms that exports were a major drag on overall third-quarter gross domestic product growth, with net exports subtracting possibly as much as three percentage points," said David Madani of Capital Economics.

Suit targets 7 Up antioxidant claims

7 Up with antioxidants will soon be off the market, after an advocacy group accused the drink maker of making misleading health claims.

Dr Pepper Snapple Group says its 7 Up varieties that tout antioxidants will be off the market by early 2013. The company says it made the decision to reformulate the drinks in 2011.

The announcement was made after an advocacy group, the Center for Science in the Public Interest, filed a lawsuit in California on Thursday saying the drink's claims are misleading because they give the impression the antioxidants come from fruit rather than added vitamin E.

Air Canada mulls fare decreases

Airline passengers in some smaller Canadian cities should get a break on fares next year as Air Canada vowed Thursday to respond to lower fares promised by WestJet when it launches its new regional service next year.

"We know that the regional challenges will require some level of response from us and that is natural, normal and healthy competition and we're certainly prepared for that," Air Canada CEO Calin Rovinescu said Thursday during a conference call about the airline's improved third-quarter results.

WestJet CEO Gregg Saretsky mused Wednesday about lowering fares when it launches WestJet Encore next year.

Open wallets. Canadians to shell out more this holiday

A BMO holiday outlook suggests Canadians' spending spirits have improved this season, with the bank projecting an average 15 per cent jump in holiday spending over last Christmas.

The Bank of Montreal's 2012 Holiday Spending Outlook finds that survey respondents plan to spend an average of $1,610 this holiday season, up from $1,397 in 2011.

Shoppers surveyed say they plan to shell out an average of $674 for gifts this year, compared to an average of $583 last year. The top reasons for spending more are having more people to shop for and being better off financially. Spending on trips is also projected to increase, while amounts allocated for entertaining were expected to fall from a year ago.

Other analysts weighing in on holiday spending this year also believe Canadians will be more generous with their finances. THE CANADIAN PRESS

To budget or not?

- One-in-five respondents to the BMO survey — conducted by Pollara among 1,000 Canadians — said they didn't plan on creating a budget.
- Nearly half of respondents say they'll set a loose budget, while three-in-10 say they plan on sticking to a firm budget.
- More than half (53 per cent) admitted to making impulsive purchases during the holiday season.
- A majority of respondents, or 68 per cent, said they plan to begin shopping before December and 30 per cent said they planned to start prior to November.

Novice investors will probably want to start with an adviser, says columnist Bryan Borzykowski. ISTOCK

Go it alone, or go to an adviser?

Investing. This is the third of a three-part series on getting into the stock market

IN THE MARKET
Bryan Borzykowski
For Metro

It's never been easier to get into the stock market. You can invest online, through an adviser and at your branch. You can buy stocks, mutual funds, exchange-traded funds, fixed-income and more.

Investing is so simple that it can be overwhelming. Where do you start? What should you buy? How much do you need?

Novice investors will likely want to start with an adviser. They understand the market and know which products are the best. It's also their job to make your money grow, which is hard for most people to do on their own.

Some financial planners, such as bank-based advisers, are free, though others can be expensive, depending on what you want them to do. Many charge a flat fee that includes investing and developing a financial plan.

As well, advisers typically invest in mutual funds, which come with a hefty management ratio. Usually, a mutual fund company will take around two per cent of someone's invested assets to cover expenses. If you don't know what you're doing, though, it's worth paying for the advice.

Savvier investors often buy securities online. Every bank has its own web-based brokerage, but there are other firms, such as Qtrade, Interactive Brokers and Questrade, that offer similar services.

Do-it-yourself investors often buy stocks and exchange-traded funds — a basket of stocks that track a specific index — that don't come with the same management fees as mutual funds do. (Stocks don't come with any management costs.) There is a trading fee, but, depending on how often you trade, it can be negligible. Per trade costs range between $6.99 and $29.99 — it depends on the bank and how often you buy and sell — but it's often cheaper than buying mutual funds with an adviser.

Once you figure out how you want to invest and with what products, you need to decide what type of account to use. Registered Retirement Savings Plans (RRSP) are still the most popular investment account, as you only have to pay tax on the total account balance when you withdraw, likely in retirement.

Tax-Free Savings Accounts, which were introduced in 2009, are giving the RRSP a run for its money. Whatever you invest in a TFSA grows tax-free. While you don't get a tax refund, like you do when you invest in an RRSP, you don't have to pay the CRA when you withdraw.

There are also non-registered accounts that offer preferential tax treatment on capital gains — the difference between what you bought a security for and what it's sold for — and dividends. Most people turn to non-registered accounts after maxing out their RRSP.

See what I mean about choice? It's amazing anyone invests in the stock market at all. But don't get flustered; investing really is easy. Check out your bank's online brokerage account to see what DIY investing has to offer, or talk to a financial adviser for more hands on help.

THREE WORDS: FOUR MORE YEARS, AND ONE RECORD NUMBER OF RETWEETS

THE LIST
Neil Morton
metronews.ca

1 Call your hockey parody. Hockey blogger Harrison Mooney co-wrote and stars in a hockified version of Robyn's hit Call Your Girlfriend on YouTube called Call The Union. His hilarious plea to the NHL and NHLPA to get a deal done went viral. It features Mooney in a Vancouver Canucks jersey dancing and singing rather poorly. This might be just the jolt the NHL needed. Watch the vid at metronews.ca.

2 Most retweeted tweet, ever. 'Four more years' was the simple yet concise three-word tweet that came out from @BarackObama Tuesday night, along with a picture of Barack and Michelle in a warm embrace. It was retweeted nearly 800,000 times — the highest number ever. President of the United States for another term — and King of the Twittersphere, too.

3 Need help? Call @justinbieber. New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie took to tweeting Justin Bieber to get the word out about Hurricane Sandy New Jersey Relief Fund: '.@justinbieber my girls are big fans. Will u help us spread the word about NJReliefFund? For more info: http://tinyurl.com/anufbos #WeWillRebuild.' Biebs, always helping causes, obliged, retweeting to his nearly 30 million followers.

4 Falcons 8-0. The Atlanta Falcons were once one of the laughingstocks of the NFL, but their franchise can now do no wrong. With a star QB in Matt Ryan, they are halfway to a perfect season this year after beating the (hapless) Dallas Cowboys 19-13 on Sunday. Even if they don't go unbeaten, a Super Bowl appearance is definitely in their sights — if they beat da Bears!

5 How to use paparazzi. As Maroon 5 frontman Adam Levine and his girlfriend were leaving a lunch spot in L.A., trailed by paparazzi, he made a makeshift sign encouraging passersby to 'Text Red Cross to 90999' for Hurricane Sandy victims. My genius idea: Every celebrity should do this while being trailed by the paps — have a sign handy to promote a philanthropic cause.

6 Mo bro! I'm proud to be growing a stache for the first time ever — well, since the excitement of facial hair in Grade 8. It's for Movember Canada, of course, which raises money and awareness for men's health issues such as prostate cancer and mental illness. Give at ca.movember.com or donate to me personally at mobro.co/4648193. Thanks!

7 Extreme Cougar Wives. A program airing later this month on TLC called Extreme Cougar Wives features couples with wide-ranging age differences, including 65-year-old Stephanie, who is in love with 28-year-old Octavio. While this "cougar" thing may have hit its tipping point now, all the power to these women. If men can date way younger women — creepy! — then why not turn the tables?

8 Etiquette expert. If etiquette confuses you, like in my case (I get confused over when not to wear plaid) what better place to turn than Canadian etiquette expert Karen Cleveland. She tackles all things etiquette on her blog — mannersaresexy.com — from the traditional: how to bring your own wine to a restaurant, to the taboo: such as why your company should have topless meetings (as in, sans mobile devices).

9 Trail Blazer, not. A new iPhone app called Trail Blazer that's geared toward kids stars a buffalo who bikes and snowboards past northern Alberta landmarks while avoiding obstacles and collecting coins. Oh, and the game is made by Syncrude, one of Canada's largest producers of oil from Alberta's oilsands, and includes feel-good, pop-up messages about the company. Game over.

Eyewitnessed robbery

Biker gang raids shopping mall

This amazing image shows the dramatic moment a gang of robbers made their escape on motorcycles in a shopping centre.

Six people riding three motorbikes and carrying axes drove into Brent Cross Shopping Centre in north London, England.

METRO

Photographer's viewpoint

"It was like a Hollywood film. I would never have imagined someone would do that in a shopping centre. It was like a scene out of James Bond."

Rick Treister, photographer

Treister was on his way to the Apple store in Brent Cross Shopping Centre when he heard the sound of screaming and breaking glass. He managed to get one picture of the robbers as they passed him at full speed.

Details of robbery

- Panic in the shopping mall. Eyewitnesses said the thieves sped into the first floor of the shopping mall and headed for the Fraser Hart high-end jewelry store before smashing windows to get at the valuables on display. Shoppers began to panic as the robbery took place, with many people running for the exits. Some shops would not let customers leave while the incident was underway, witnesses said.
- Bikes abandoned. The motorbikes used in the robbery were found abandoned in Mill Hill, north London, 15 minutes after the robbery took place. Flying Squad detectives from the capital's police department have released footage of the theft taking place, to help in appeals for witnesses and information. So far, no arrests have been made.
- Not an isolated incident. The smash-and-grab incident came a day before a pawnbroker's store was targeted about three kilometres away by another motorbike gang.

Lindsay Lohan plays Liz Taylor in the Lifetime TV movie Liz & Dick, which airs Nov. 25. HANDOUT

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Why we still love Liz

Rewind. In celebration of the Lohan-led TV movie Liz & Dick, the Reel Guys pick their faves from the 'greatest movie star of all'

Richard: Mark, I know we'll get to the good Liz Taylor films in a second, but I'd like to start with Boom! a strange movie about a much-married booze hound (Liz wearing Vegas-inspired Kabuki gowns!) and a penniless poet (Dick) who romances her in the final hours of her life. This one fails on virtually every front, except that in its awfulness it has a campy charm, and for the ones who get the joke, great entertainment value.

Mark: Boom? Richard, you are perverse! But I have to admit that even Taylor's better films veer toward camp. Look at Butterfield 8, which I consider her essential mid-career movie. She plays an amoral man-eater who's a borderline prostitute. The movie has the greatest line Liz Taylor ever committed to celluloid, "Mama, face it, I was the slut of all time!" Although the movie is badly dated, it makes a strong case for the return of the negligee.

RC: I guess I like anything with Liz and Burton. Like The V.I.P.s. As if having Liz and Dick on screen wasn't enough star power The V.I.P.s adds in Orson Welles, Maggie Smith and a host of other early '60s A-listers. The melodramatic story is set on one night at the Heathrow Airport first class lounge. Liz looks amazing in this, but for me the highlight is Welles's sleazy movie producer who'll do anything—including marrying someone he hardly knows — to avoid a whopping tax bill.

MB: It must be some kind of meta-theme in Taylor's work: fat old guys stealing the movie from The Most Beautiful Woman In The World. Burl Ives has the same effect in Cat on a Hot Tin Roof. When he's onscreen, you forget about Taylor, which is quite a feat. Liz is a good little scene chewer in this adaptation of Tennessee Williams' mediocre play. Lots of scenes occur in the bedroom, giving her ample opportunity to dress and undress.

RC: Burton was Liz's most famous co-star, but she frequently co-starred with Montgomery Clift, who once said, "She feels like the other half of me." Check out Suddenly Last Summer or A Place in the Sun to see their chemistry.

MB: To my mind, Taylor was just a movie star until she played Martha in Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf. Brilliantly directed and guided by Mike Nichols, she revealed herself to be a great actress as well.

Synopsis

The Reel Guys will wait to pass judgment on Lindsay Lohan's portrayal of Elizabeth Taylor (opposite Grant Bowler as Richard Burton) in Lifetime's Liz & Dick, but with the TV movie airing this month, we thought we'd take the opportunity to have a look at the real deal; the movies of the lilac-eyed La Liz.

Twilight star a child no Lautner

Transforming in the spotlight. Taylor Lautner talks spending his formative teen years as the world's most famous werewolf

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Taylor Lautner started the Twilight franchise when he was 15 years old, and in the five years since he's become an international celebrity. The end of your teenage years can be awkward enough as is, but being under the media spotlight adds a whole different level of discomfort. "It's amazing how much a 15-year-old to a 20-year-old grows up and matures just regularly. Going through this, it definitely was at an accelerated rate," he says. "[The scrutiny] definitely added to it. It was the part of it that we never predicted."

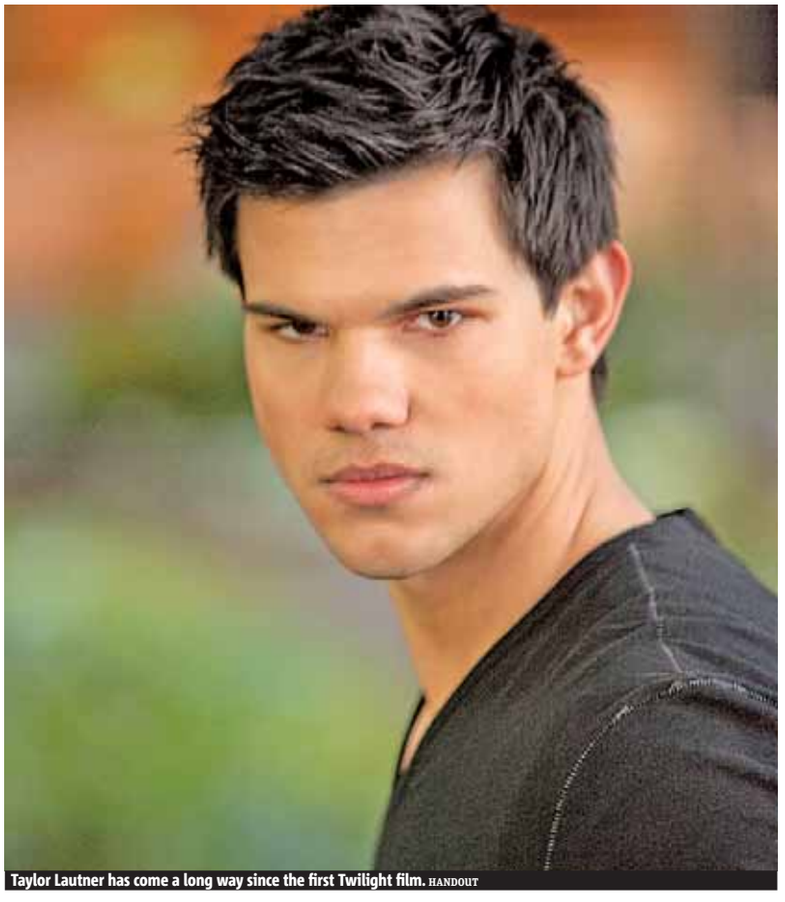
The first lesson Lautner had to learn was to not just hide from the world. "When something like that happens to you, you tend to [withdraw]," says Lautner, who became a tabloid staple when rumours about him dating Taylor Swift circulated in 2009.

"The worst thing you can do in that situation is just lock yourself up inside your house and not do anything and just be scared. You just have to think about things more and maybe just plan more in advance, but you don't want to change who you are and everything you do just because of it."

Of course, he did have to make some changes because of his fame — like where he spends his free time. "I haven't been to a mall in a while and I haven't been to a theme park in a while, but I figure out how to get into movie theatres," he says. "I do [wear a disguise], but they don't work at all for some reason, and I don't know why. I think I literally just have to put prosthetics on because literally I put a baseball hat on, glasses, pull the hat down, I look in the mirror and I'm like, 'All right, you are set. You don't look anything like yourself.' And the second I step outside, it's almost like I'm wearing nothing."

Looking ahead

So where does Lautner go from here? Certainly the Twilight franchise has given him a leg up over other 20-year-old actors, but his first non-franchise entry, last year's Abduction, was a critical and commercial failure. Lautner's plan to avoid another stinker, he says, is to diversify. "I'm looking forward to doing something different for myself and challenging myself," he says. "I don't want to do the same thing over and over again. My goal is to challenge myself to a wide variety of roles and genres of film."



Taylor Lautner has come a long way since the first Twilight film. HANDOUT

Michael Sheen. It's not easy being the bad guy, according to actor

Michael Sheen has had a relatively easy schedule in the Twilight series, "flitting in and out" as the villainous Aro, as he puts it, while the rest of the cast has taken on a more strenuous time commitment.

But that doesn't mean he's gotten off easy.

In fact, Sheen takes issue with the old adage that playing a villain is more fun for an actor. "I suppose people think, 'Oh, it's so much more enjoyable to play villains and it's so much more enjoyable to play that kind of thing,'" he says.

"It's hard work. I find it hard work, anyway. Maybe other people find it easier. But it's not something that you just kind of enjoy when you're doing it in the same way. Because if you enjoy it too much yourself, I think people just feel it's self-indulgent. You want the audience to enjoy it, which is the point. You can't enjoy yourself too much. It's work."

One bit he definitely didn't enjoy was the film's grand finale, which takes place on a snow-covered field — something Sheen thought he'd be well-prepared for.

"You think, a bulk of this film is going to be in a forest at night somewhere really cold doing this battle scene in the snow," he remembers.

"So when we were working on the costumes, I thought — bit of experience. I've done this before. I'm going to make sure I've got a really warm costume. Layers and layers of wool and velvet. I was like, 'I'm going to be fine.' And the poor Amazonian girls ... 'I'm sorry, girls. You're just going to have to hold on tight.'"

The actual filming conditions didn't turn out as Sheen expected — though the Louisiana location should've been a tip-off. "I turn up on day one, and it's on a soundstage! It's not in a forest at all," he says.

"So for weeks and weeks and weeks we're in this room with boiling hot lights, fake snow, and the Amazonian girls are like, 'Nyah nyah!'"

Catching up with the Cullens. The actors you've come to know as Edward's family share their post-Twilight plans

The actors who portray the Cullen family in the Twilight series have had the luxury of a steady gig for five years now — something of a rarity for a film actor. But that's all over now. So, who's ready for life after Twilight and who's not? We checked in with the Cullens.

Kellan Lutz: "I've been working on my clothing line for about two years called Abbott + Main, which is another one of my passions — fashion. It's in Nordstrom, it's in Bloomingdales, it's doing great. Career-wise, I love action movies so I'm producing a couple..."

Nikki Reed: "I just put out an album. Every song is written by my husband and me, and we sing together. We also have a song on the Twilight soundtrack. I did four really cool films this year, two I'm especially proud of — one called Empire State with Liam Hemsworth and ... In Your Eyes, that was written ... by Joss Whedon."

Jackson Rathbone: "I've been focusing on my production company, trying to get projects launched. It's a learning process as a producer just as much as I constantly learn as an actor. I do have hopes to direct. And I always make independent music through my record label, Happy Jack Music."

Ashley Greene: "We're all thankfully working. I'm doing this movie, CBGB, right now that's very independent. Everyone involved is a well-oiled machine. It's just fun..."

Peter Facinelli: "I was doing Nurse Jackie and the Twilight saga literally shooting simultaneously for three or four years, so it's hard even now going to Nurse Jackie and not having another job to go to."

Elizabeth Reaser: "We had careers before this. I know how to manage what that lifestyle is, and you find a way to be creative and be useful in your life when you're not working."

Drama

Lincoln

Director. Steven Spielberg

Stars. Daniel Day-Lewis, Sally Field

Lincoln focuses on a short period in Honest Abe's career, zeroing in on the backroom politics that led to the passage of the anti-slavery 13th Amendment through the House of Representatives. The first glimpse of Daniel Day-Lewis as Abraham Lincoln feels like watching a Yankee five-dollar bill come to life. It's a remarkable performance in a movie filled with great acting. Tommy Lee Jones and Sally Field also impress, but it is director Steven Spielberg who really brings this ambitious and important story to life.

RICHARD CROUSE

Documentary

Chasing Ice

Director. Jeff Orlowski

Stars. James Balog

In 2007, photographer James Balog set out to capture images of climate change that the public could not ignore. So he installed time-lapse cameras throughout the Arctic, which took photos every day for years and documented the world's rapidly shrinking glaciers. Jeff Orlowski's film, which follows Balog and his team, is full of stunning yet devastating images that will do more to inform the world about climate change than any depressing statistic or dire warning could. But Chasing Ice is not just another climate change film. It's a film about Balog.

REGAN REID

Thriller

Pusher

Director. Luis Prieto

Stars. Richard Coyle, Agyness Deyn

Based on Danish filmmaker Nicolas Winding Refn's (Drive) famed trilogy, Pusher is an English adaptation about a dope trafficker trying desperately to amend a botched transaction before a hulking Balkan drug lord busts him up. As familiar a story as it is, star Richard Coyle laces his performance as the desperate dealer with empathy and the frenzied editing and energetic soundtrack by electronic group Orbital makes Pusher a potent potboiler.

STEVE GOW

Drama

Dangerous Liasons

Director. Hur Jin-Ho

Stars. Zhang Ziyi, Jang Dong-gun

In the latest adaptation of the classic French novel Dangerous Liaisons, 18th Century France is swapped out for 1930s Shanghai. Unconventional as it sounds, it still follows the familiar tale of a libertine challenged to seduce a young widow (Zhang Ziyi of Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon fame) in a cruel erotic wager. While it may not live up to the 1988 Oscar-nominated version, slick production and a beautiful and compelling cast help sustain the drama.

STEVE GOW

Documentary

The World Before Her

Director. Nisha Pahuja

Stars. Pooja Chopra, Prachi Trivedi, Ankita Shorey

Nisha Pahuja's disturbing look at two extreme lifestyles for girls in India makes the blood run cold. The beauty queen business of the Miss India Pageant offers a way out of poverty for girls who dream of stardom in a country that dwarfs Hollywood in its love of celebrity. And Durga Vahini, a fundamentalist Hindu girls' boot camp prepares little girls for a different life. Pahuja's brilliantly executed film about Indian girls' struggle for identity and power reveals little hope for the future.

ANNE BRODIE

Comedy

The Oranges

Director. Julian Farino

Stars. Leighton Meester, Hugh Laurie

On a perfect street, in a perfect town, live two seemingly perfect families: the Wallings and the Ostroffs. But when the Ostroffs' only child, Nina (Meester) and the unhappily married Mr. Walling (Laurie), have an affair — and then quickly and inexplicably announce they're "in love" — everyone's perfect life begins to unravel. The biggest problem with The Oranges — aside from the feeble jokes — is that it is unbelievable and yet, at the same time, completely predictable. Despite a talented cast, The Oranges is conventional and uninteresting. REGAN REID

Longing for that 1980s bully

scener@metronews.ca

Contemporary bullying is a lot more diabolical than it used to be, mainly because the physical and psychological assault no longer lets up when the school bell rings.

Social media has made it possible to keep the harassment train chugging along with the relentlessness of a freight train, 24/7.

With the 10th annual Bullying Awareness Week kicking off Nov. 12, we take a wistful look back at 1980s movie meatheads, those one-dimensional beat-down artists who, in the end, always got their just dessert.

Moody My Bodyguard - 1980

Moody (Matt Dillon) and his flunkies run an extortion ring, taking their classmates' lunch money in exchange for "protection." When the new kid, Clifford, refuses to go along, Moody and his minions make his life miserable: elbowing him on the basketball court, tripping him and dumping rotting garbage in his gym locker. Clifford fights back by befriending the school's reclusive misfit Linderman, whose reputation reduces Moody's crew to cowering gerbils. Gets What's Coming: With Linderman in his corner, Clifford manages to break Moody's nose.

The prized pupil of a sensei with sadistic tendencies, Lawrence, (William Zabka), takes Cobra Kai's "Strike first, strike hard, no mercy" ethos outside of the dojo. While on the surface JL fits the part of the archetypal alpha dog, the All-Valley Karate champ is hurting. He has recently broken up with is girlfriend Ali (Elisabeth Shue) and he wants her back. Lawrence channels his anger toward the new kid from New Jersey who is making a play at his ex. Gets What's Coming: Daniel-son waxes him with a crane kick. In defeat though, he learns humility and respect: "You're all right, LaRusso!"

Chet Donnelly Weird Science - 1985

Chet (Bill Paxton) is a crewcut Neanderthal who gets his jollies picking on his younger brother Wyatt and his friend Gary. A triple threat tormentor, this psycho sibling traffics in lapel scrunching wall-shoves, wedgies, breakfast larceny, and puerile insults that tend to feature the words 'buttwad' and 'dickweed'. Gets What's Coming: Computer generated vixen, supermodel Kelly LeBrock, uses her I Dream of a Supermodel Genie powers to transform Paxton into a slimy monster that could pass for Jabba the Hut's son.

Biff Tannen Back to the Future - 1985

The bully plies his trade in the past, present, and future throughout the trilogy. Resentful of anybody with more brains than the pea sized one he's packing between his ears, Biff attempts to level the intellectual playing field between him and George McFly by connecting fist with cranium. The "hello, hello, anybody home?" McFly taunt would become a popular real-life bullying technique. Gets What's Coming: Biff gets covered in manure when trying to ram a skateboarding Marty McFly into a truck and George McFly gets the girl after KO'ing Biff with a left hook.

The Alpha Betas & Pi Delta Pis Revenge of the Nerds - 1984

After being rejected by every frat at Adams College the nerds form their own. The campus Greek community is less than welcoming and unleashes a series of demeaning pranks on the nerdy Tri-Lams. Get What's Coming: When pushed to the brink, the nerd herd unleashes its superior intellect. They stage a series of retaliatory attacks on the Alpha Betas, a panty raid on the Pi Delta Pi sorority complete with the installation of spy cameras and are ultimately victorious at the school's Greek Games.

6 – LEDs
vw.ca

Bells and whistles are nice. But we're much bigger fans of sensible lighting. You see, we place an LED behind every single button, switch, and dial in all of our vehicles. Because, when it's dark, a feature is only useful if you can see it. Yet another little thing that makes a Volkswagen a Volkswagen.

Untangling a Webb of Jimmy

Songwriter. Jimmy Webb has been the man behind numerous hits for well over a generation

JONATHAN DONALDSON
scene@metronews.ca

Although he's not extremely famous, songwriter Jimmy Webb is widely considered to be one of the greatest songwriters of the rock-era.

That's because unlike Lennon/McCartney, Smokey Robinson, or even Carole King, Webb was a pure songwriter whose greatest moments came at the hands of others.

But whether it was Sinatra performing Didn't We, the 5th Dimension doing the delectably light Up, Up and Away or Glen Campbell's own poignant readings of Wichita Lineman and By The Time I Get To Phoenix, Jimmy Webb's uncanny knack for marrying lyric to melody always shines through.

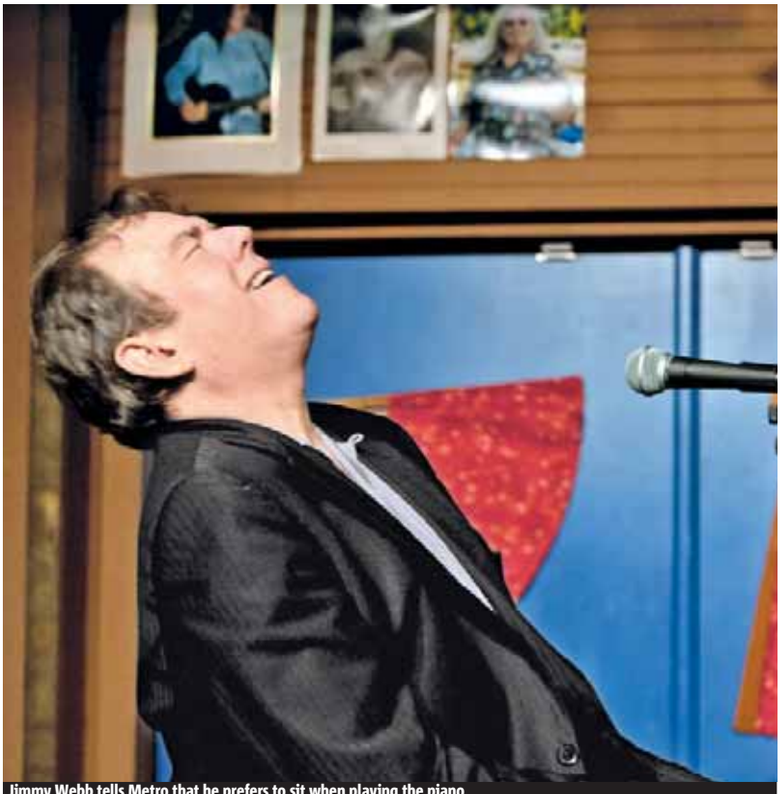
This week, the MFA features two performances from Webb in their Ruth and Carl J. Shapiro Celebrity Lecture series, featuring not only the singer and his piano, but also anecdotes and Q&A.

He's now in his mid-60s and still active on the recording scene: 2010's Just Across the River features career-spanning remakes with vocalists from Lucinda Williams to Jackson Browne and Volume 2 is on its way.

Webb now finds himself in the unique position of being a professor emeritus on the art of songwriting.

He is the chairman of the National Songwriter's Hall of Fame, sits on the ASCAP Board of Directors and his 1999 book Tunesmith is still critically regarded as the best book on songwriting.

"I don't do stand-up, but I do sit-down, because I am at the piano," says Webb on his own performance style, which he has worked hard to continually improve over the years.



Jimmy Webb tells Metro that he prefers to sit when playing the piano so that he can feel the music. HANDOUT

"I try to make people laugh and let them see that, as horrible as the prospect is of exposing one's self as completely as songwriters do, that there is a funny side to it as well!"

Jimmy Webb
On his performance style

Lighter side

See the lighter side of the musician.

- Mysterious. Although Webb has a grand Southern wit, fans know him best for his often-mysterious lyrics. "I've certainly left the door wide open for all kinds of crazy interpretations," says Webb, recalling past letters from admirers whose interpretations exceeded his fantasies.
- One letter. One wrote that her husband played Wichita Lineman every day, but never understood why the protagonist got electrocuted in the end.
- Another letter had a familiar ring. Another praised MacArthur Park (widely-lampooned for its infamous 'cake in the rain' metaphor) as an ode to General MacArthur. "Anyone who might wonder if I've been punished enough for writing 'McArthur Park,' rest at ease!"

See him live

Jimmy Webb will be performing in Toronto this Saturday.

- Where can you see him? Webb will be putting on a show this Saturday at Hugh's Room (2261 Dundas St. W.)
- Tickets. $45 Advance/$50 Door. Check out hughsroom.com
- On music. When asked about the state of contemporary music, Webb is still alert. How about the resurgence of beard-folk and the rise of Bon Iver and Fleet Foxes? "It's cyclic," he says of our return to roots.

Pattinson and Stewart 'basically live together again'

While the reunion between Kristen Stewart and Robert Pattinson hasn't become official yet, the Twilight co-stars are practically living together again, according to Us Weekly. Sources say Pattinson has been spending his nights lately at Stewart's new $2 million home despite his own being nearby. "They basically live together again," a source says.

Taylor Swift

Why do Taylor's relationships fail? Ask her friends

Taylor Swift's troubled love life is legendary — and the inspiration for many a hit song for the singer. But to hear her friends tell it, Swift herself is to blame for the fact that none of her relationships last. "All Taylor wants is to be loved," a source close to the singer tells Us Weekly. "She's a prisoner of her work. It takes up all of her time. She overworks relationships. She puts so much pressure on them, it ultimately kills the deal. Then she's baffled as to why it didn't work."

Cyrus: I'm only having one marriage (and one divorce)

THE WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Miley Cyrus went on The Ellen DeGeneres Show to clear up a few things regarding that whole "I'm having three marriages" rumour (apparently spread by father Billy Ray) that's been going around.

"There is some rumour going around that I'm having, like, 47 weddings. I'm not," Miley told Ellen on Thursday. "I'm having one wedding. That's my day and whatever I want on that day will be about me and that moment."

But that doesn't mean the wedding will be anytime soon, as the 19-year-old is working on her career. "I'm so focused on my record. … I kind of don't want to be in between touring and trying to plan all that, because I didn't really realize until I got a wedding planning book what you have to decide on," she said. "Like, I don't care what colour the napkins are, to be honest. I really don't care."

Smart girl: Hosting three weddings sounds like a logistical nightmare. Does that mean guests have to give her three presents? Do they have to do the Electric Slide three times? And does it mean she would (inevitably) have to have three divorces?

John Travolta

Travolta's long time friend Kirstie Alley has his back

John Travolta has been fending off a lot of accusations about his sexuality lately, with several male masseurs suing the star for sexual harassment and assault this year, but he has at least one ally in his corner — longtime friend Kirstie Alley. "I know John with all my heart and soul, and he's not gay," the actress tells Barbara Walters in an interview, calling Travolta the "greatest love of my life." Alley has her own theories for the persistent speculation about Travolta's sexuality. "I think in Hollywood, if someone gets famous enough, and they're not out doing drugs and womanizing, what do you say about them?"

Light side of Aussie wine

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell

If there's one thing I learned from visiting a gazillion wineries across Australia in record time is that there's more to Down Under than red wines. While they've become synonymous with the dark, spicy goodness that is shiraz; the thick, meaty fruit of Cabernet Sauvignon; and more recently, plump, fruit-forward pinot noir, the Aussies make darn fine white wines too.

I think it was me who said that you really have to wrap your lips around reds before you can fully appreciate whites.

Oz's New World climate is a perfect home for the development of white wines with rich, flowing personalities that, more often than not, massage unique flavour profiles from familiar fruit.

Chardonnay, Sauvignon blanc and riesling are the big three whites in Australia — with pinot grigio making some major in-roads, as is the lesser know viognier.

Yet another expat French varietal from the Rhone Valley, viognier's plush, white pepper character and lightly tropical style is well represented in Yalumba's 2011 Y Series Viognier ($15.99 to $17.99) from South Australia.

It's a great wine to pair with grand roast poultry dinners, and Thai and Asian cuisine. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

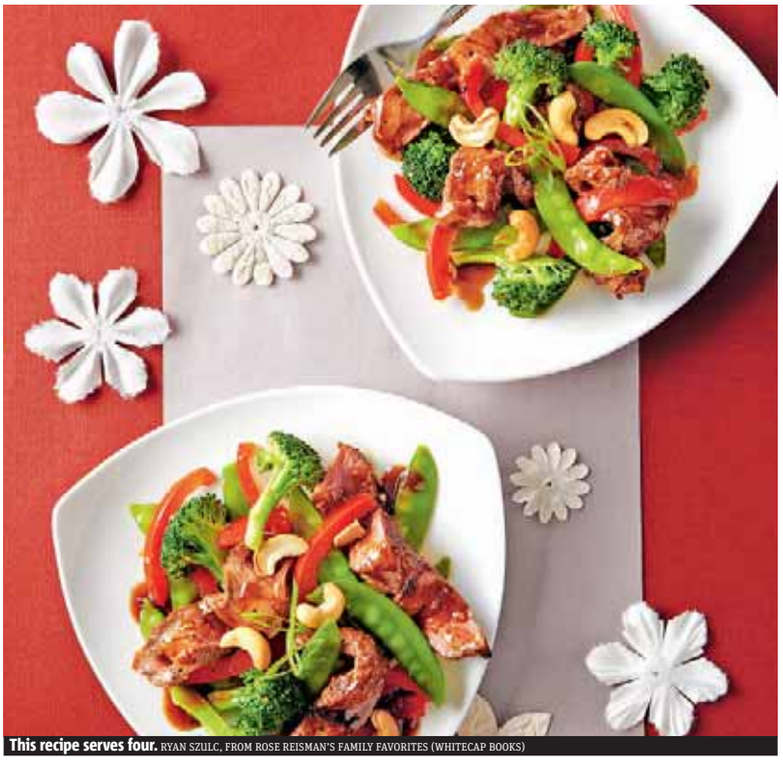
Beef stir-fry is an all-time favourite for the family, especially the kids. It's the one way I make sure my kids are getting their protein, vegetables and grains.

Ingredients

- 3/4 cup beef (or chicken) stock
- 1/4 cup packed brown sugar
- 2 tbsp low-sodium soy sauce
- 2 tbsp rice vinegar
- 2 tsp sesame oil
- 1 tbsp cornstarch
- 2 tsp finely chopped garlic
- 1 1/2 tsp finely chopped ginger
- 12 oz boneless grilling steak
- 2 tsp vegetable oil
- 1 1/2 cups chopped broccoli
- 1 1/2 cups thinly sliced red bell pepper
- 1 1/2 cups snow peas
- 1/4 cup chopped cilantro
- 1/4 cup chopped green onions



This recipe serves four. RYAN SZULC, FROM ROSE REISMAN'S FAMILY FAVORITES (WHITECAP BOOKS)

1. Sauce: Whisk stock, brown sugar, soy sauce, vinegar, sesame oil, cornstarch, garlic and ginger in a bowl. Set aside.

2. Lightly coat a large, nonstick skillet with cooking spray and place over high heat. When the skillet is hot, brown the beef for 3 minutes, or until it's browned but still rare. Remove from the pan, let rest for 5 minutes, then slice thinly.

3. Respray the pan. Heat the vegetable oil, then add the broccoli, red pepper and snow peas. Cook for 3 minutes. Return the beef to the pan. Stir the sauce and add to the pan. Stir-fry for 2 minutes or until the sauce is thickened and bubbly and the beef is done to your liking. Be careful not to overcook.

4. Place on a serving platter and garnish with cilantro, green onions.

Blue Jays sign infielder Izturis to three-year pact

The Toronto Blue Jays signed infielder Maicer Izturis to a $10-million US, three-year deal Thursday and acquired right-handed reliever Jeremy Jeffress from the Kansas City Royals for cash considerations.

The 32-year-old Izturis appeared in 100 games for the Los Angeles Angels last season. He posted a .256 average with two home runs, 20 RBIs and 17 stolen bases in 19 attempts.

Federer moves on at ATP finals

On an indoor court, Roger Federer can win even when he's not playing his best.

He proved that again Thursday at the ATP finals, beating David Ferrer 6-4, 7-6 (5) and advancing to the semifinals with a group match to spare despite struggling to land his serve and scrambling to stay in the long rallies.

"I've been very successful over the years. Probably won most titles indoors, maybe more than all the other guys combined," said Federer, who called it a natural surface for him. "But that doesn't make me the best this week."

He is, however, the big favourite. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Argos sign Milanovich to contract extension

CFL. Toronto's commitment to GM Barker remains unclear

Chris Rudge showed the Toronto Argonauts' commitment to head coach Scott Milanovich while again stirring the muddied waters of GM Jim Barker's long-term future.

The Argos re-signed Milanovich to a contract extension Thursday less than a year after hiring him. But besides the timing of the move — Toronto hosts the Edmonton Eskimos in the East semifinal Sunday — what made it peculiar was Rudge, the Argonauts CEO, lavishly praising Barker but not emphatically quelling the rumours about his future with a firm extension for the GM.

For weeks, speculation has swirled that former Edmonton GM Eric Tillman was heading to Toronto this off-season to replace Barker, who has a year remaining on his contract. That talk cranked into overdrive last weekend when Tillman was fired by the Eskimos.

Rudge tried silencing the Tillman talk by endorsing Barker while stating emphatically the Argos have never spoken to the veteran CFL executive about coming to Toronto.

"He'll be here certainly through '13 and into the foreseeable future. The general manager's position has not been in play and never has been in play and it's not really an issue we should suddenly be forced to deal with because it's on somebody else's agenda."

Barker made it clear he'd like to remain also.

"Of course. I have my best friends here," he said. "In our football operations, I can tell you, there are no agendas, everybody's pulling the rope in the same direction and that's a fun situation."

Barker joined the Argos as head coach in 2010 and was named the league's coach of the year after leading the squad to a 9-9 record. He added the GM duties shortly afterwards when Adam Rita's contract wasn't renewed.

After posting a 6-12 record last year, Barker resigned as coach to concentrate on his GM's duties. One of Barker's first moves was hand-picking Milanovich as his successor.

Barker and Milanovich have long been considered a package deal and Milanovich firmly believes Barker isn't going anywhere.

Milanovich file

- Milanovich arrived here in December after five seasons as an assistant coach with the Montreal Alouettes and promptly led the club to a 9-9 record and second spot in the East Division.
- The Argos never reveal contract terms.

Talks rolling along in NHL labour dispute

Lockout. With all regular-season games cancelled through Nov. 30, negotiations have reached a critical and delicate stage

The NHL and NHL Players' Association will meet for a fourth straight day in an attempt to salvage a shortened season.

Key negotiators from the league and union, including NHL commissioner Gary Bettman and NHLPA executive director Donald Fehr, met for more than five hours Thursday and indicated talks will continue on Friday.

"I don't really have much to say," said Bettman. "We met with the players' association the last three days and we're planning on meeting again tomorrow. But I'm not going to discuss the negotiations or the substance of what we're talking about. I really don't think that would be helpful for the process."

Location uncovered

Reporters managed to uncover the "undisclosed" location where the talks are being held.

- The sides have been meeting at the midtown Manhattan offices of Proskauer Rose, the law firm where NHL lead counsel Bob Batterman works, and across the street from the building where the 2004-05 CBA was hammered out.

Fehr was similarly tight-lipped.

"All I can say is that we discussed a wide range of topics relating to the issues between us," he said. "I really can't say more than that at this point."

Little is known about exactly where talks stand.

Sources told The Canadian Press that the NHL responded to a pair of union proposals on Thursday and one suggested it was a good sign the sides still planned to keep talking. On Wednesday, the NHLPA tabled new offers regarding revenue sharing and the league's "make whole" provision, with the union suggesting a system where the players' share in revenue drops to 50-50 in the third year of the deal.

The "make whole" provision is seen as the fundamental issue left to solve.

How hockey assists are helping turn up the Heat in the NBA

Roundball revolution.
Canada's national sport has helped rev up the offence of basketball's defending champs

There's nary a pair of skates visible in the Miami Heat locker-room, no bucket of pucks in the practice facility and no Zamboni following the team around, either.

Still, there's at least one hockey principle that's in the mind of the reigning NBA champions so far this season.

With emphasis on ball movement, the Heat are currently into what's known as "hockey assists" — essentially, the pass that sets up the pass that sets up the score.

In hockey, it's typical for two players to be credited with having passes to set up a goal, and while it's hardly an NBA statistic, Heat coach Erik Spoelstra is working it into his team's repertoire as well.

"If anything, it's a compliment to the game of hockey," Heat centre Joel Anthony said. "We're recognizing the different types of ways they reward players for making the extra pass. Hockey acknowledges it a lot more. There's no stat for it in basketball but we still acknowledge that."

Quoted

"Making the pass to the guy who makes the pass is just as valuable."

Miami Heat forward Chris Bosh talks about how his team values the concept of the second assist

Anthony would seem to be the resident Miami expert in this field.

After all, he's the Heat player who hails from Canada's hockey epicentre of Montreal.

"That extra pass, it means a lot for us," Anthony said.

Miami's ball movement this season is beyond statistically impressive. In their four wins so far, the Heat have 109 assists against only 43 turnovers. Even with their lone loss taken into account, the Heat assist-to-turnover ratio of 1.98-to-1 leads the NBA entering Thursday's games.

As a team, Miami reached the 25-assist mark only 12 times in 66 regular-season games last season; this year, the Heat have gotten there four times in five games.

"It's all about getting somebody the better shot," Wade said.

Take Wednesday's 103-73 win over Brooklyn as an example. LeBron James finished the game with 20 points, 12 rebounds and eight assists in only 30 minutes, getting the fourth quarter off. A triple-double was easily within reach, though with the game in hand, there was no need for the NBA's MVP to play the final period.

While hockey assists might be one of the go-to terms for the Heat these days, it's not a new concept.

James said he began thinking about the parallel between hockey assists and smart basketball passing in high school. Chris Bosh credits Paul Hewitt — his college coach at Georgia Tech — with introducing him to the concept. Dwyane Wade had similar sentiments, saying it was a term that Tom Crean used when he was in college at Marquette.

"Making the pass to the guy who makes the pass is just as valuable," Bosh said.

"I'm all-in," said Mario Chalmers. "I like it, since I'm usually the one that gets the hockey assist. As long as we're winning, everybody's happy."

Breaking down semifinal Sunday

CFL EXTRA POINTS

East semifinal

Edmonton (7-11) at Toronto (9-9), Sunday, 1 p.m. (TSN)

Backroom intrigue is the last thing the Edmonton Eskimos need right now, but they stirred it up with the firing of GM Eric Tillman earlier this week.

Rumours persist that Tillman is now destined for Toronto and a similar role with the Argos, triggering all kinds of denials from Hogtown, where Tillman traded Esks star quarterback Ricky Ray last off-season. The swap not only created controversy in Edmonton but a huge credibility gap for the league should Tillman be reunited with Ray in T.O.

Since the crossover format's introduction in 1996, it is just the seventh time a team has headed to the other division for a CFL semifinal, and history is not on Edmonton's side. Only B.C. in 2009 advanced to the East Division final.

This Sunday's semifinal favours the Argos not only for Ray's presence at the helm, but East Division most outstanding player candidate Chad Owens will likely make an impact on special teams and offence.

To succeed, Edmonton will need a dominant performance from Fred Stamps, who recovered from an early season slump to finish second among CFL receivers.

Season series: The Esks beat the Argos both times the teams met in 2012, but much has changed since those encounters. Not only has Ray returned to all-star form, Edmonton's muddled QB situation has left everyone second-guessing whether they should start veteran Kerry Joseph or youngster Matt Nichols. Steven Jyles, acquired in the Ray swap, is an afterthought.

Pick: Toronto by 5

West semifinal

Saskatchewan (8-10) at Calgary (12-6), Sunday, 4:30 p.m. (TSN)

The Calgary Stampeders are the CFL's hottest team, but you can't help think they get a chill when pondering Sunday's opponent. Despite a four-game win streak, history suggests almost anything can happen when the Roughriders visit McMahon Stadium.

Since winning the 2008 Grey Cup, Calgary has lost two West finals to Saskatchewan and was thumped 33-19 in the West semifinal last fall in Edmonton. The Stamps have suffered playoff losses in each of their last four post-season encounters with the Riders, dating back to 2007.

Additionally, Saskatchewan minimizes Calgary's home-field advantage more than any other team as thousands of Riders fans are expected to turn up at McMahon Stadium, as usual.

The Riders locked down practice early this week, leaving media miffed and conspiracy theorists suggesting the coaching staff has cooked up something special to upset the Stamps.

The biggest shock may have come days before the opening kickoff, when the Stamps chose Drew Tate as their starting quarterback ahead of Kevin Glenn, who led the team most of the year as Tate rehabbed a shoulder injury.

Season series: The Roughriders and Stampeders met three times, with Calgary taking two of three games. The Stamps won the first two, highlighted by a stunning comeback overtime win in Week 4 that handed the Riders their first loss of the year. However, the Riders claimed the final regular-season encounter. Pick: Calgary by 2.

Odds stacked against Bills in Foxborough

NFL. Buffalo has never defeated New England at Patriots' stadium

The Buffalo Bills are plummeting toward their 13th straight season without a playoff berth. Four losses in their last five games are the wrong steps toward that elusive goal.

Now they must play the team that has dominated them for a decade in a stadium where they've never won.

Beat the New England Patriots? The Bills have done it just twice in their last 21 matchups.

"They've obviously had our number," Buffalo quarterback Ryan Fitzpatrick said. "We're kind of down right now. We don't think we're out. I think there's still a positive vibe in the locker-room. I think you have to have that, otherwise you're beat before you go play."

The Patriots (5-3) don't expect an easy game as they try to improve to 11-0 against the Bills (3-5) at Gillette Stadium. A victory takes on more urgency since they lead the Miami Dolphins by just one game in the AFC East.

"It's always tough against a division opponent, no matter what the guys' records are," New England defensive tackle Vince Wilfork said.

The Patriots will be rested after having a bye last week. They went into it after their best game of the season, a 45-7 win in London in which they held St. Louis scoreless after allowing a touchdown on the Rams' first possession.

In their first meeting with the Bills this year, the Patriots trailed 21-7 early in the third quarter, then scored touchdowns on six straight possessions and pulled away for a 52-28 victory. It was just the second game in NFL history in which a team had a 300-yard pass rusher, two 100-yard receivers and two 100-yard rushers in the same game.

"They are very balanced now," Buffalo linebacker Kelvin Sheppard said. "It is not just the Tom Brady show. It's not just that they are going to line up five wide and throw the ball around. Now they do have the run dimension."

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Close but no cigar

The Bills have been competitive in Foxborough.

- In 2009, they led 24-13 but lost 25-24 when Tom Brady threw two touchdown passes in the last three minutes.
- In 2010, they led 24-23 with two minutes left in the third quarter but lost 38-30. And last season, they led 21-0 after one quarter, then collapsed and lost 49-21.

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Get help from someone who is more worldly-wise than you are. You may think you can get things done alone but life will be easier if you have someone to handle negotiations and read the small print that you tend to ignore.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Do what you feel is right and ignore those who disagree with you. You tend to do that anyway, but today there really is no time for discussion. Follow your muse wherever it chooses to lead you.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
The right things seem to be happening at just the right time and today's Venus-Jupiter link will certainly bring good news concerning a partnership or relationship. One-to-one relationships are under excellent stars.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
You have never been one to put dollars and cents above other things but over the next few days you must focus more on your financial situation. Could you be earning more? Yes. Should you be spending less. Double yes.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
Your heart will rule your head today and that will lead to some seriously fun times. Friendships and social activities must come first, at least for a while. Contacts you make now will bring long-term benefits.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
There are times when it all seems to come together, and this is one of them. Both at home and at work, things will fall into place with no input from you, and that's nice. All you have to do is enjoy them.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
This is potentially one of the best days of the year as your ruler Venus, currently in your sign, links with luck planet Jupiter. Make a wish and expect it to come true, because it most likely will. Go on, ask for something outrageous.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
It's time to get serious about your aims and ambitions. Something you visualize over the next few days is potentially more than just an idle daydream. Handled the right way, it could be your future – and that future is bright.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
You may be tempted to say what you think people want to hear but that would be a mistake. The planets urge you to be honest, even if it means hurting a loved one's feelings. They'll thank you for it one day.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Go out of your way to be nice, even if people are not nice to you. Someone in a position of authority thinks you are ready for bigger and better things, and if your manner is positive, a promotion is likely.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
You may or may not be on the move over the next few days but even if you stay close to home, you will certainly be looking at the world in a different way. You have never been one to follow the herd.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
Today's Venus-Jupiter link will emphasize the generous side of your nature, which is rarely far from the surface. Do what you can for people in need but don't bankrupt yourself in the process — that won't help them or you. SALLY BROMPTON
